Rich Kenyan Culture

Rooted in Heritage, Built for Tomorrow

Tatu City is nestled in Kiambu County, a region rich in history and cultural heritage. Home to vibrant traditional communities, the area's arts, crafts, and natural landscapes continue to inspire modern developments like Jabali Towers — where contemporary design is deeply influenced by local culture.

As part of its commitment to sustainability and cultural preservation, Tatu City protects and nurtures indigenous trees and has established the Mugumo Tree Heritage Park, safeguarding a tree sacred to Kenya's Kikuyu tribe.

A Century of Kenyan Coffee Excellence

Just steps from your home, you'll find Tatu Coffee Estates — the leading purveyors of Kenya's finest coffee for over 100 years.

Tatu City remains the largest vertically integrated cultivator and exporter of Kenyan coffee. Grown in rich volcanic soil and an ideal climate, our coffees are renowned for their quality, innovation, and sustainability.

City in a Forest

Green Urban Haven

Enveloped in expansive green landscapes, Tatu City stands as a visionary urban haven — balancing modern living with environmental stewardship.

More than just a place to live, the city is a sanctuary where five lakes and meandering rivers converge, fostering an ecosystem rooted in long-term sustainability, resilience, and conservation.

Urban Wildlife Habitat

Every indigenous tree at Tatu City is geotagged. Each year, over one million plants and a variety of native tree species are planted. Our reforestation program and urban tree nursery are the largest of their kind in the region.

Just minutes from Jabali Towers, you'll find the Tatu Wildlife Sanctuary — 100 acres of natural green space that are bringing indigenous wildlife back into the heart of our daily lives.

Holistic Environment

Integrated Urban Living

Tatu City is master-planned with a holistic vision of urban life, where all elements of the city function as one connected ecosystem. Homes, workplaces, transport networks, green spaces, and essential services are carefully planned to complement one another, creating a community that is efficient, inclusive, and easy to navigate.

This integrated approach ensures that daily living flows seamlessly — supported by well-connected roads, public transport, and pedestrian-friendly environments that encourage accessibility and interaction.

Wellbeing, Lifestyle & Community

Set across 5,000 acres, more than 100 kilometres of walking and cycling trails weave through indigenous trees and landscaped green spaces, offering residents opportunities to unwind, stay active, and reconnect with nature. A vibrant calendar of events and social activities further strengthens community bonds, creating a safe and engaging environment for individuals and families alike.

Sustainability & Smart Infrastructure

Sustainability and technology form the foundation of Tatu City’s holistic ecosystem. Intelligent systems for energy, water, and waste management are integrated with advanced digital infrastructure to ensure long-term environmental responsibility and seamless connectivity.

Community-focused amenities — including schools, healthcare facilities, retail, workplaces, and social services — are strategically embedded throughout the city, ensuring that everyday needs are met locally and efficiently, reducing travel time and enhancing overall quality of life.

Design Philosophy

Strength and Endurance

Rising boldly into the skyline, Jabali Tower A (20 storeys) and Tower B (31 storeys) reflect a unique blend of organic, industrial, and minimalist architecture. Interiors are inspired by the warm terracotta tones and lush greenery of the surrounding landscape.

The exterior further enhances this harmony, with façades inspired by the intricate patterns of traditional beadwork — a nod to Kenya’s vibrant artistry. This fusion of tradition and innovation gives the towers a timeless yet distinctly modern character.
